

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Prince George, B.C.

June 5, 1989

BETWEEN:

CAROLYN FRANCES BEAL

PLAINTIFF

AND:

WILLIAM HUMENIUK and
ELSIE MARG DEVINE

DEFENDANTS

REASONS FOR JUDGMENT

OF THE HONOURABLE

JUDGE LOW, L.J.S.C.

D. BYL, Esq.

appearing for the Plaintiff

G.A. WRIGHT, Esq.

M. GENDREAU, Esq.

appearing for the Defendants

THE COURT: (Oral) The Plaintiff, now twenty-three years of age, suffered injuries in a motor vehicle accident on April 12, 1987. She was driving a car at 40 to 45 kilometres per hour when it was hit broadside by a vehicle owned by one of the defendants and driven by the other. The defendants admit liability.

The force of the collision propelled the plaintiff forward and to her left causing her head to hit hard against the left corner post or window. Her upper body spun around and fell back to the right in the direction of the front passenger seat.

Shortly after the accident the plaintiff went to the

1 emergency department of the Prince George Regional Hospital,
2 where she saw Dr. Hawkins. Her neck was sore and stiff and
3 she had a lump on the left side of her head. She had a
4 severe headache which continued almost unabated for about
5 eight months.

6 Two days after the accident the plaintiff saw her
7 family doctor, Dr. Paterson, who diagnosed whiplash injury
8 involving the neck muscles at the top of the spine. He 9 expected, quite reasonably at that stage I think, that the 10 problem would be resolved by the following September or 11 earlier.

12 The plaintiff was given a soft cervical collar at the 13 hospital on the day of the accident, which she wore
14 continuously. At the end of September, Dr. Paterson
15 prescribed a hard cervical collar which she wore inter-
16 mittently on a daily basis until December. She took 17 physiotherapy for 33 consecutive days, commencing two or 18 three days after the accident and thereafter she had 40 more
19 treatments continuing until the end of September. Those 20 treatments improved the soreness and stiffness in her neck,
21 but she became frustrated and predictably anxious because
22 the problem with headaches was not resolving in proportion
23 to the improvements in the muscular problem as one would 24 expect. The headaches were constant, severe and unrelenting
25 during the summer of 1987 every day. They decreased in 26 number to four or five times per week in the late fall of 27 1987, but were still severe. The plaintiff went, to use her

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1 words, "just about off the edge."

2 On November 18, 1987, Dr. R.H. Roydhouse, a dentist
3 specializing in mandibular problems, examined the plaintiff
4 thoroughly and diagnosed that the blow to the left side of 5 her head caused damage to the left temporal muscle, which 6 led to a jaw dysfunction and permanent damage to the 7 temporomandibular joint. There has been a suggestion during 8 the course of this trial that something should turn on the 9 fact that the referral to Dr. Roydhouse in Vancouver was 10 made by the plaintiff's counsel. The point was not 11 strenuously pursued, but it should be laid to rest in any 12 event. I know of no reason why an accident victim with an
13 ongoing and frustrating problem should not take good advice
14 where she finds it. The evidence as a whole suggests that 15 the referral to Dr. Roydhouse was for treatment primarily 16 and the defendants should be thankful that the problem was 17 not left unattended. Had things stayed the way they were,
18 the plaintiff's damages might have been substantially
19 greater than they are.

20 Dr. Roydhouse confirmed his diagnosis during four 21 subsequent visits from the plaintiff ending in February of 22 this year.

23 Dr. R.K. Lindsay, a dental specialist in oral and 24 maxillofacial surgery, did an independent medical examination
25 of the plaintiff on March 17, 1988. He saw her for one
26 hour or less. I find that there are some inaccuracies in 27 what he says was reported to him by the plaintiff and, in

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1 the absence of notes made by him on those points, I accept
2 the assertive evidence about them from the plaintiff. In 3 his report of March 28, 1988, Dr. Lindsay states there was 4 no evidence of dysfunction of the temporomandibular joint 5 and the plaintiff was simply suffering from pain in the 6 affected neck muscles and pain, to a lesser degree, in the 7 muscles on the side of the head including the temporal
8 muscle. In his evidence, the doctor suggests the pain in 9 the side of the head was "referred" from the pain in the 10 neck muscles.

11 I am faced with choosing between the opinions of two 12 highly qualified and very experienced specialists. I prefer
13 the opinion of Dr. Roydhouse for several reasons. First,
14 he did, in my view, a much more thorough examination of the 15 plaintiff with considerable follow-up and opportunity to 16 confirm his initial diagnosis. Second, Dr. Roydhouse took 17 a more thorough history from the plaintiff and accepted from 18 her several symptoms, which I also accept, and which were not
19 considered by Dr. Lindsay. Third, as the treating 20 specialist Dr. Roydhouse was simply in a better position
21 to make an accurate diagnosis. Fourth, Dr. Roydhouse
22 provided the plaintiff with a device known as a bitesplint,
23 which is a partial plate inserted behind the upper teeth
24 and worn by the plaintiff to restrict the clenching of her
25 teeth and ease the pain resulting from the joint dysfunction.
26 Dr. Lindsay, in his report, said that he agreed with this
27 treatment, "to unload the muscles of her jaws", although it

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1 would not alleviate the neck-muscle pain. It was not
2 adequately explained to me why the bitesplint would have
3 any effect upon pain in the temporalis muscle which,
4 according to Dr. Lindsay, is a minor referred pain only.
5 And finally, the diagnosis made by Dr. Roydhouse, on the 6 whole of the medical evidence, is more consistent with the 7 pattern of severe and persistent headaches not being
8 alleviated by the effective treatment of the injured neck
9 muscles.

10 The bitesplint has been partially effective, but is 11 remedial only and not curative. It is an uncomfortable
12 device that nobody should be expected to wear indefinitely.
13 Dr. Roydhouse expressed the opinion, which I accept, that 14 the plaintiff should have orthodontic treatment in the 15 future which would cost about $4,000 and will necessitate
16 the wearing of braces for one year to eighteen months. This
17 treatment is likely going to be needed to realign the teeth
18 to conform to the dysfunction which has resulted from the 19 trauma to the temporalis muscle. Dr. Roydhouse believes the 20 orthodontic work will leave the plaintiff pain free, but he 21 says there is a 30 per cent chance it will leave her with 22 discomfort for a period of about ten years. I believe he 23 means that some headaches would continue for that long.

24 From the spring of 1988 the plaintiff's headaches began
25 to decrease in frequency from four or five days a week to 26 once or twice a week and lasting two to four hours, however,
27 they are still severe and intense.

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27

In summary, the plaintiff was totally disabled for a little more than a year after the accident, was partially disabled for three or four months after that and has been left with a condition which causes her bad headaches once or twice per week. This condition has interfered with her sporting activities and her social life. She will have to undergo uncomfortable orthodontic treatment with a likelihood of full recovery in due course.

I assess non-pecuniary damages at $20,000. The plaintiff will also recover $4,000 for the expected cost of the orthodontic work.

At the time of the accident the plaintiff was working full time as a gas station attendant in her father's business and I find her gross earnings were at a level of approximately $900 per month. Her plan was to continue working until the end of August, 1987, then work part time while she took some college courses preparatory to taking one year of teacher's training at Simon Fraser University commencing in September of 1988. Her goal was, and still is, to become an elementary school teacher. She planned to save as much as she could from her earnings to meet the expected cost of attending Simon Fraser University. I accept her evidence that during the fall of 1987 and of the winter and spring of 1988 she would have earned at least $500 per month working part time. In the spring and summer of 1988, because of the continuing headaches, she was unable to work as much as she would have worked.

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1 I find the plaintiff lost wages at $900 per month for
2 four and one-half months, amounting to $4,050. She then
3 lost wages of $500 per month for eight months, totalling
4 $4,000. From May through August, 1988, she earned $1,600
5 and might have earned $3,600. I think she could have worked
6 more hours than she did during that time and I note that the
7 record of hours worked does not show a consistent rising
8 pattern, a situation for which there is no explanation in 9 the evidence. I allow this part of the wage loss claim at 10 $1,000, making a total wage loss claim of $9,050.

11 I am not satisfied that there is any basis for allowing 12 a wage loss claim for the past college year. Nor am I
13 persuaded there is any basis for awarding damages for the 14 delay to the plaintiff in entering the work force as an 15 elementary school teacher. I think that claim is 16 speculative. The inconvenience of that delay is reflected 17 in the non-pecuniary damages.

18 The plaintiff will recover special damages in the 19 agreed amount of $1,800. She will also be awarded court
20 order interest at the Registrar's rates from time to time
21 and in accordance with the provisions of the statute as to 22 various heads of damage. She will also recover costs.

23 MR. GENDREAU: Your Honour, this may be an appropriate time to 24 advise the Court that there has been an amount of $3,480
25 paid with respect to wage loss to the regulations. My 26 friend agrees too.

27 MR. BYL: That's admitted, Your Honour.

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2

1 THE COURT: All right. That will be omitted from the wage loss
2 portion of the judgment.
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27

SELLINGER, ROSS & ASSOCIATES

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS
315 - 1488 FOURTH AVENUE
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. V2L 4Y2